Pucksters Win Blairmore Ball Tournament

Best Picture Butte in First Game 5-3; Defeated Blairmore in Final 3-2.

Coleman Pucksters played like the champions they are in the Blairmore baseball tournament on July 1. Drawn against Picture Butte, provincial senior champions, Angelo sent Marconi in to silence the prairie team's big bombers. Marconi, who has been rather shaky in previous starts, pitched the best game of the season and allowed two hits. Johnny Elick led the local's attack with timely hits that brought home runs, and the locals marched into the final against Blairmore with a 5-3 win.

In the final Johnny Elick pitched for Pucksters with Sanderson behind the plate. Elick showed brilliant form and held the Crow league leaders well in check while his team-mates gathered three runs from the opposing pitcher to give him a close 3-2 decision. First prize netted Pucksters $75.00.

At Michel, Pucksters were noosed out 8-7 in a thrilling game. It is reported that the referees were not as impartial as they should have been. Angelo states he never again will take a team into a Michel ball tournament.

Coleman Birds Make Good Time Under Bad Conditions

Andrew Biegun Wins the Bell Memorial Cup for Second Year.

The birds for this race were shipped from Coleman on Monday June 24, arriving at Wateryways, Alta, on Wednesday morning but were kept in the baskets until Friday, 3:50 a.m. on account of wet weather.

This holdover handicapped the birds from being able to make the 505 miles flight in one day and their performance was very satisfactory under the conditions.

The first two birds to arrive in Coleman came together and the championship of the club was decided by the fastest trapper, with A. Biegun clocking in his bird 37 seconds ahead of F. Beddington.

Liberated at 3:50 a.m. Friday, June 28, the birds were clocked in the following order on Saturday, June 29.

1st. A. Biegun, 8-23-36 a.m.
2nd. F. Beddington, 10-16-20 a.m.
3rd. M. Nemeth, 10-16-20 a.m.
4th. J. Claes, 12-23-40 a.m.

At stake in this race was the Bill Bell Memorial Cup and miniature presented by the Grand Union Hotel, Club Stakes for the first two birds, and prizes for the first four members clocking in.

The prizes were given by J. S. D'Apollonia, Excel Builders, Sam Saffo, Coleman Motors, and Hayson's Drug Store.

The next race will be for the Crow's Nest Pass Championship represented by the Dr. E. K. Lillie Cup and will also be flown from Wateryways, Alberta 505 miles circuit.

Birds for this race will be shipped on Monday, July 8.

Trends In Migration

Due to the course that the war in Europe is taking it looks as if the foundations of the solution of one of Canada's major problems—that of additional population—are being laid at the present time. Reference is made, of course, to the decision of the Canadian government to offer the hospitalities of these shores to refugee children "for the duration" and no doubt before the war is over adult refugees will be invited to make this country their home.

During the discussions on immigration which have taken place at meetings of various organizations and in the public press in Western Canada in the past three or four years, while the Hornby and other immigration schemes were under consideration, stress has invariably been laid on the importance and advisability of encouraging the migration of British stock, for in many quarters it was felt that it was desirable to numerically strengthen the leaven of the entire population by infiltration of those who have been nurtured in the principles and ideals, for the maintenance of which we are now waging a gigantic struggle.

At that time—two or three years ago—considerable opposition to additional migration to Western Canada, and more particularly the prairie provinces, was raised by farmer and labor organizations, on economic grounds. It was felt then by the objectors, that there would be great difficulty in absorbing additional population at a time when unemployment was rife and during a period when farmers were unable to make a margin of profit out of their operations.

To what extent these adverse economic conditions will be ameliorated as the war progresses, it is impossible to predict at this stage. Much will depend upon the duration of the conflict and a great deal will depend upon the rapidity with which the reverses sustained during the earlier months of the war can be repaired and losses offset by progressive gains.

New Duty Arises

While none in this country doubt, or should have any reason to question the ultimate success of the Allied forces, the time that will be necessary to ensure a complete Allied triumph is still an uncertain factor. While the film is yet unrolling one cannot always be certain how long it will take to reach the happy ending.

Because of the uncertainty the economic picture in prospect is dimmed for the time being. While markets for some Canadian commodities seem to be disappearing, others are opening up and the picture is bound to change, perhaps many times, before the fighting is over.

Meanwhile, it is the duty of Western Canada to carry on its efforts to prosecute the war with the utmost vigor, and, for agriculture, this involves an assurance that there will always be on hand a plentiful supply of food commodities and other supplies for the fighting forces, so that they may be available as and when required.

As a result of recent developments another duty opens up for the people of Western Canada and that is to welcome and provide a comparatively safe harbor for many children of British birth whose lives are threatened by the German war machine. The term "comparatively" is used because while even this country is jeopardized, it is recognized that, for the present at least, prairie homes and their occupants are not subject to the perils which invest the women, the children and the aged in the British Isles.

Leading To Settlement

Just how many of these British children of school age—from five to 16 years—will ultimately find a safer temporary home in Canada, is impossible to say, but a first contingent of 10,000 is provided for under an agreement between the British and Canadian governments.

In the light of the large number of school children endangered by war hazards in Great Britain, ten thousand looks like a drop in the bucket, but there are many limiting factors, not the least of which is the availability of transport facilities. Other limitations are the number of British parents who will prefer to keep their children at home rather than entrust them to others and the number of Canadians who will be found willing to take these children into their homes.

Insofar as Western Canadian people are concerned it can be taken for granted that there will be very many who are willing to throw all selfish considerations aside and will be ready to take these temporarily "orphaned" war victims.

That this influx of temporary visitors will mean some additions to the permanent citizenry of this country, there can be no doubt. Coming to Canada at impressionable and formative ages, many of them will readily fall into the ways and customs of the country very speedily and will want to remain and make their home here, and if the war is of considerable duration as, indeed, it may be, the younger ones will grow up here and when old enough to leave school will have decided that they cannot do better than make this country their home.

When the war is over it cannot be doubted that many of those who, because of circumstances or desire, or both, decide that Canada will be the country of their adoption, will induce older brothers and sisters, parents and other relatives to come and settle in this country.

Radium Moved To Cave

Steps Taken In Manchester To Avoid Chance Of Tragedy

Radium from the Christie Hospital and Holt Radium Institute in Manchester has been transferred to a cave in the Derbyshire Hills as a war measure.

The step was taken after the board was informed that if a bomb burst up to 150 yards away from the hospital while a patient was being treated with radium—the explosion would burst the radium needle, kill the patient and make the immediate neighborhood uninhabitable.

The delivery of milk on a house to house basis was begun in the Middle Ages. Cows were driven to each domicile and delivery was made on the spot.

Trying Out Experiment

Britons Will Soon Test Bacon From Tulip-Fed Hogs

Tulip bacon may be a new delicacy to tempt the epicure, if British ministry of agriculture experiments are successful.

At Kirton agricultural institute in Lincolnshire, tulip bulbs, unfit for sale or propagation, were fed to pigs in place of meal. They were used, both raw and cooked, to replace 25 per cent of the cereal part of the meal ration. The resulting tulip bacon will shortly be tested.

The ministry adds this warning, however—daffodils are not suitable for feeding.

The Way To Advancement

A Man Must Be Willing To Work In Order To Improve His Position

A year and more ago an ex-news-papper man in his early 20s donned overalls and doffed his white collar, and became a route man, with a truck, selling a perishable food product. He had to rise before 4 a.m. and his task carried him into the late afternoon hours. He had his griefs, yet he stuck to his job.

To-day this young man has a much better job, and is able to go back to a different type of collar and to tog himself up in other ways. He won out for a choice commercial traveler's job in a field of 400 entries, and he uses a motor car instead of a truck.

There's another young man, about the same age, who has been idle for a year. He professes to want to be a commercial traveler. He is depending on pull—very largely—to get a job. In the past year he has rusted badly, and his character has deteriorated. He is limp. He lives at home—softly. His self-salesmanship is feeble. He has not kept himself in good form during the past year.

What I want to say is: Have a job and get a job. Take a distasteful and badly paid job, if you can't get any better one, and then from it work forward to a better job—one in line with your goal—J. C. Kirkwood in Marketing.

Library For Troops

Canadian Authors' Series To Be Sent Overseas

"Canadian Authors' Series," a library of books being formed by the education division of the Canadian War Services, has been increased by two autographed volumes by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Lieut.-Col. Wilfred Bovey, national chairman of the division, has announced.

Mr. King's books, "The Secret of Heroism" and "Industry and Humanity," will be sent, along with 200 other volumes from the pens of well-known Canadian writers, to the C.I.W.S. education headquarters in London. The books will form the basis of a large library being established for men of the Dominion's fighting forces who are studying trades and professions under the Legion's wartime scheme.

In presenting his books, Mr. King congratulated the Legion "upon its educational services, and upon its novel idea of obtaining copies of works by Canadian authors."

Included in the shipment leaving Canada are works by Canon F. G. Scott, Sir Charles G. D. Ross, Col. Mazo de la Roche, Lawrence J. Burpee, L. M. Montgomery, Hector Charlesworth, A. S. Bourinot, P. D. Ross, Lloyd C. Douglas, and many others. Most of the books bear the autographs of their authors.

Purchases By Tourists

Ten Per Cent. Tax On Goods Brought Back From U.S.

Goods brought into Canada by Canadian tourists returning home will be subject to the 10 per cent tax, announced in the budget, on value for duty on all imports except under the British preferential tariff.

Previously tourists returning from the United States could bring $100 worth of goods into Canada duty free but now they will have to pay this 10 per cent import.

This coupled with the 11 per cent difference in the exchange rate actually puts the equivalent of a 21 per cent duty on goods being brought into the Dominion from the United States.

Under the $100 exemption during the fiscal year ended last March 31 about $11,000,000 worth of goods came into Canada, national revenue department officials estimated.

One of the most popular articles brought to Canada under the $100 tourist exemption clause have been small radios. These now will have a total of 31 per cent, that must be paid to get them to Canada, 11 per cent by reason of the exchange differential, 10 per cent radio tax and 10 per cent on all imports except under the British preferential tariff.

Explanation Is Simple

Writer Tells Why Germany Has Not Gone Bankrupt

The democratic world has been waiting for seven years now for Germany to collapse economically. Financial experts in Paris, London and New York could not conceive how Hitler could spend so much and still keep his head above water. They pointed to Germany's depleted gold reserves and to the steady loss of foreign assets. Mr. Fritz Sternberg, author of "From Nazi Sources: Why Hitler Can't Win," writing in New Republic tells how Nazi authorities have done it.

Hitler, writes Mr. Sternberg, has spent 90,000,000,000 marks on rearmament. Where did the Nazis get the money? From the people, answers Mr. Sternberg. To-day there are about 20,000,000 gainfully employed Germans. This is 8,000,000 more than in 1932. But the 20,000,000 to-day actually get less wages than the 12,000,000 did in 1932. This is because taxes have been increased sharply, because the mark has depreciated in value and because living costs are up tremendously. In order to encourage farming the tax burden has been shifted largely from rural lands to industrial workers.

Thus solution of the problem is easy. The Nazis have made full use of Germany's labor market. There is virtually no unemployment. Yet the men who work day and night in the nation's war industries receive nothing for their effort. Production is vast but the cost remains the same. Mr. Sternberg believes that a day of reckoning must come. Hope of victory has inspired the millions of German workers. So far a huge corps of Gestapo agents and terrorist troops have kept opposition silent. As long as Germany wins victories the people will work on, but an explosion is inevitable, the writer argues, when the war begins to drag and German armies are held back—Watertown, N.Y., Times.

Accepts Soldier's Badge

Queen Elizabeth Pinned Regimental Decoration On Her Own Coat

During their tour of Lancashire, the King and Queen spoke to a party of soldiers. One of the soldiers who saw that the Queen was very interested in the regimental badge they were all wearing unpinned it from his coat and asked Her Majesty if she would accept it. The Queen thanked the soldier, took the badge, and pinned it to the lapel on her own coat.

Boys' impetuously earned for 15-year-old Billy Carswell a brief audience with the King and Queen. Billy found himself hidden behind a row of uniformed naval experts. So he poked his fair-haired, grimy head between two of the naval experts. The King and Queen saw him and the Queen asked him "How old are you?" and "What do you do here?" "I'm 15, Your Majesty," Billy replied, "and I am a check boy. I check the men in at the lodge."

Escaped The Gestapo

Wife Of First Czech In The R.C.A.F. Outwits Nazis

A story of escape from the ruthless oppression of the Gestapo in Czechoslovakia with the happy ending in the pretty blonde heroine's arrival at the side of her airman husband in Canada, was related in Toronto, Mrs. Stanislaus Mlynar.

Left in Czechoslovakia thirteen months ago when Stanislaus escaped to fight "on the right side" should war occur, Mrs. Mlynar faced a long Gestapo inquisition in her home. She finally was left alone when she pretended her husband had divorced her and gone away with another woman and she produced a letter, sent by previous arrangement, to prove it. Posing as a German girl on a holiday, Mrs. Mlynar got into Italy in February and from there tried to get to Canada, where her husband was the first Czech accepted in the R.C.A.F. Official red tape prevented an early sailing and arrangements for the voyage were made one hour before the Manhattan, last United States ship, left Italy.

A Very Old Industry

First Methods Used For Canning Foods Were Very Primitive

To "eat what you can't"—the original version of the canning industry—actually was the idea of two Englishmen back in 1807.

With the war on when iron rations are the backbone of the soldier and the housewife at home set up a "tinny" larder—the fact that the medical world assures the quality of canned foods as being equal to that of fresh food, is a source of comfort.

When Bryan Donkin and John Hall first had the idea of putting meat and soups inside a tin at Dartford Iron Works in 1807, their methods were primitive. And a can opener wouldn't have been much use. The cans had to be opened with a hammer and chisel.

But the idea caught on and William Edward Parry, the explorer, took a supply of canned goods on his quest of the Northwest Passage in 1819 and on three subsequent voyages.

Arguments against canning are defeated by the fact that a can of carrots and gravy—museum piece from Parry's third Arctic voyage in 1821—was opened in 1938 and found to contain, even at that date, an equivalent of "carotene" to fresh carrots, a proof that foods do not lose in quality from being canned. Other provisions sealed in 1822 and opened in 1891 were found to be still — perfectly good food.

The Young Raleighs

Hate War But Give Themselves That England May Live

There is a tragic perfection to the relentless logic in the life of Lieut. W. S. Finlayson, young English officer, who was killed in the heroic defence of Calais at the age of 28.

Under the name of Wallace Douglas he was also an actor and was one of the first of many to play the role of Raleigh in Fourteen End, a character that typified all that is best in English youth, and whose life, too, it will be recalled, closed in the glow of sacrificial splendor.

There were many Raleighs in the last war; there are many of them in this conflict—young men of the type whom dear old Mr. Chips saw leave the Gothic halls and the ivied towers by the hundreds. They fight, not because they relish this bestial business of war, but because they are willing to die that England may live.—Hamilton Spectator.

Canadian Destroyer Lost In Collision In Bay Of Biscay

Ottawa. — A unit of Canada's destroyer fleet, H.M.C.S. Fraser, was sunk off the mouth of the Gironde river near Bordeaux, France, while in performance of hazardous duties, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons.

The sleek, gray ship was lost in a collision and 45 members of the crew are dead or missing.

Mr. King disclosed that 115 of the crew were saved and he understood that among them was the commanding officer, Commander Wallace B. Crerar.

Seventeen of the rescued men are injured, one seriously and another dangerously ill.

The sinking of the destroyer in the Bay of Biscay waters off the mouth of the Gironde was the first naval loss since the start of the war.

The announcement from navy headquarters said: "Naval service headquarters regrets to announce that while engaged in the performance of hazardous duties off the mouth of the Gironde river near Bordeaux, France, H.M.C.S. Fraser was lost in the face of the enemy in a collision."

Other units of the Canadian navy are operating in European waters but for reasons of naval secrecy the nature of the operations on which the Fraser was engaged and the employment of the other destroyers could not be disclosed. Thus no details of the collision were given.

It was recalled, however, that a Canadian destroyer took part in the evacuation of Canadian and British diplomats from Bordeaux, the temporary capital of France, during the period when the armistice between France and Germany was being negotiated. Lt.-Col. George P. Vanier, Canadian minister to France, was among those evacuated.

The Fraser travelled all the way from the Pacific coast to the scene of the war. She was one of the six destroyers which, with the flotilla leader, Assiniboine, comprise the fighting units of the Canadian navy. Other destroyers are under construction at British shipyards.

The ship had a displacement of 1,335 tons and was armed with four 4.7-inch guns, seven smaller guns and eight torpedo tubes. It was one of four vessels in what was known as the "Fraser class," the others being the St. Laurent, the Ottawa and the Restigouche. The other two Canadian destroyers are the Saguelay and the Skeena.

A casualty list issued with the announcement gave the names of 45 men killed or missing. One of the dead was unidentified.

"I should like to add on behalf of all members of this house an expression of deep sympathy to the officers and men of the Royal Canadian Navy in the loss of the Fraser," said the prime minister, "and also to express the very deep sympathy of this House of Commons to the relatives of the gallant men who have been lost in their country's service."

Similar sentiments were expressed by Conservative Leader Hanson, M. J. Coldwell, acting leader of the C.C.F. party, and John Blackmore, New Democracy leader.

"This is the sort of thing that Canadians may expect to happen at this time," said Mr. Hanson. "May it be a challenge to everyone of us to support our people at the front, our gallant lads in the navy, our lads in the air and those in the army. I am sure that their example and devotion and the sacrifice they have made for Canada and the Empire will not be forgotten."

Unemployment Insurance

All Provinces Now Agree On Act Amendment

Ottawa. — Letters showing three provinces which formerly opposed an amendment to the British North America Act to clothe the federal parliament with power to enact an unemployment insurance act were now agreeable to such an amendment were tabled in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Letters from the premiers of three provinces, Alberta, Quebec and New Brunswick, were in answer to queries sent them last January by Mr. King asking their assent.

Premier Aberhart of Alberta wrote that his government found it hard to see how contributory unemployment insurance could help the workman.

The Alberta government, however, would not stand in the way of what the other eight provinces believed would be an advantage.

"We will fall in line with the other provinces with these reservations," he wrote.

British Press Guarantee

Press And Parliament Will Not Be Curbed In Britain

London. — Leslie Hore-Belisha, speaking in commons after Prime Minister Churchill finished his speech reviewing French armistice terms, asked for assurances the British press and parliament would not be curbed in England.

The former British war secretary asked the house if they did not consider it inconceivable that the French surrender could have been brought about had the French parliament been in session and public opinion by the press had not been subjected to rigorous censorship by French officials of the Pétain regime.

Replying to this, Prime Minister Churchill said that since it was unlikely that a similar situation would arise as it did in France—where the government and the press were forced to fall back in the face of a continual military offensive—the British press and parliament should be able to continue their various functions normally and without interruption.

Now With Nazis

London.—The surrender of Marshal Pétain's French government "is a transfer of allegiance from one camp to another in this world civil war," Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard said. "The marshal did not receive his credentials of government from the French people," the Standard stated. "He has received them from the hands of the German Fuehrer."

Says Britain Will Win

New York.—Great Britain, after three or four "terrible months" and a long war thereafter, will win her desperate battle against Germany, Richard G. Casey, Australian minister to the United States, said in an address on Australia.

SENIOR CANADIAN OFFICER

This is Commodore George C. Jones, senior officer of the Canadian Destroyer Flotilla. Born in Halifax, B.C., he was promoted to the rank of Commodore a few days ago. He served through the last war as an officer of various ships of the Royal Navy.

Royal Air Force Fighters

Are Indefinitely Superior To The Germans, Says Flying Officer Calgary.—The morale and efficiency of Royal Air Force fighters is indefinitely superior to that of the Germans who are "rotten," Flying Officer Philip Golder of 110 Bomber Squadron, R.A.F., told reporters here. Badly injured when his plane struck a tree in England seven months ago, Flying Officer Golder is unable to fly as a result and has returned to his home here.

He says the only time the Germans will fight is when they outnumber the British six to one. The 26-year-old flyer learned to fly in Calgary and went to England to join the Royal Air Force in 1937. He took part in the bombing of the Kiel canal and in two reconnaissance flights over Germany.

Despite all the setbacks the British have had, the morale of the people has not faltered, he said.

Repair Depot At Winnipeg

Winnipeg. — A vast aircraft repair depot will soon be going up at Winnipeg's airport. Air Commodore Shearer said it will be used for No. 2 air training command and will cost about $400,000. The repair depot will consist of 20 buildings, including workshops, hangars and living quarters.

Look After Rotarian Children

Windsor, Ont. — Windsor Rotary Club will act as a clearing house for all Canada in the matter of accepting evacuated children of Rotarians in Great Britain. A Canadian committee has received requests from British Rotarians to accommodate 28 children in this country.

British Children To Be Brought To Canada For Duration Of War

Ottawa.—The first 3,000 British children to be brought to Canada for the duration of the war will arrive at the middle of July, Resources Minister Crerar informed the House of Commons.

Additional groups of 750 will arrive at five-day intervals until July 25, he added.

The British government had been unable up to the present to estimate the total number likely to come but Mr. Crerar felt it would reach "very large dimensions."

A conference with provincial ministers was held to consider further plans for a "greatly expanded movement," if that should become necessary.

The minister outlined to the house in detail what had already been arranged between the United Kingdom and the Dominion government and also between the Dominion and provincial governments.

Ocean transportation arrangements are to be made by the British government which will supply ships and pay fares. The Dominion government will have its medical and immigration officers examine the children before sailing.

Reception of the children in Canadian ports will be looked after by the Dominion government which will provide rail transportation, meals and nursing care en route to the provincial distribution centres.

"Under the arrangements worked out between the Dominion and the provinces the latter will have the oversight of reception, placement and after-supervision," he said. They will use child welfare and other organizations with experience in this work to handle this part of the task.

"The provinces and the organizations co-operating with them are now engaged in receiving offers of homes and examining the suitability of these homes for the reception of the children after their arrival," Mr. Crerar continued.

Following recognized practice in all provinces, the children will be placed in homes of their own religious faith. Many offers of co-operation had been received from churches, national and local organizations and individuals.

"There is room for all in this voluntary effort," the minister said. There had to be one central authority in each province for placement and supervision and this authority was the provincial welfare department.

Mr. Crerar said it would greatly facilitate the work of administration if those desiring to help in any way would first communicate with the proper provincial department.

This movement of masses of children from their homes thousands of miles away was a "unique adventure" in which Canadian fathers and mothers would have sympathy and for adoption in Canada.

understanding. Nevertheless there would be some difficulties. The warmth of welcome in some homes might become cooler; due to the change of environment, the child might become a problem.

"Notwithstanding these and other problems which may arise, I am sure we may depend upon the overwhelming and continued support of the Canadian people," the minister said.

At the outset he distinguished between refugee children from the continent and British children. Contrary to popular impression, only about 2,900 Belgian children and 150 Dutch refugee children were taken to Britain, of whom 125 to 150 were unaccompanied by parents.

This did not include children and adults who reached Britain earlier from Poland, Germany and Austria. Last February these totalled less than 10,000, of whom about 90 per cent. were German and Austrian Jews, most of whom have been absorbed into the normal life of the United Kingdom.

The movement of British children consisted of two kinds. The first was those paying their way, who would support themselves here or live with relatives. This movement included residential schools moving as a body for the duration of the war.

Every encouragement is being given by the Canadian authorities to this movement and delays are not allowed to occur through unnecessary investigations which might delay sailings," Mr. Crerar said.

At present, no person between 16 and 40 could leave Britain without official permission and some difficulties had arisen from restrictions on the movement of sterling exchange.

In the last 10 days, the government had received requests from many British-born residents of Canada for help in getting relatives permission to transfer sterling funds for their own support here. The Canadian high commissioner has been urged to support the release of such sterling for those wishing to come to Canada on their own resources.

The second movement was the larger and was of children who can come to Canada only if fares and homes are provided. After the invasion of the low countries, the Canadian government offered on its own initiative to assist in bringing to Canada British and refugee children. That offer was accepted by the British authorities.

A feature of the plan was that parents in Britain with relatives or friends in Canada could nominate their children to be brought out and placed in these specific homes.

Mr. Crerar said this assisted movement of thousands of children to 15 years, with possibly a small number under five years, if available mothers would have sympathy and for adoption in Canada.

Ottawa. — Norman Smith, assistant general manager of the Ottawa Journal, joined the staff of Joseph Clark, director of public relations for the air ministry, as assistant director for the duration of the war.

W. H. Ward of Ottawa bureau of the Canadian Press is joining the staff. Flying Officer Fergus Grant, who has been Royal Canadian Air Force press liaison officer, will also work with Mr. Clark and his two associates.

Program For Use Of Alberta Oil To Save Imports Of Gasoline

Ottawa.—Behind the appointment of a national oil controller under the department of munitions and supply lies a program for harnessing Turner Valley oil field in Alberta, one of the greatest oil sources in the British Empire, to the war plans of this country and its Allies.

Only the briefest announcement disclosed the appointment of George R. Cottrell, Toronto, a director of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, as oil controller. But plans are already under way, it was learned, to adapt Alberta oil production to the war emergency.

They will include:

1—Tying up the whole western Canadian domestic market for Alberta, shutting out gasoline imports in order to save foreign exchange.

2—Extension of Alberta oil into eastern Canadian markets as quickly as possible, although Turner Valley is not producing enough for eastern Canada yet.

3—Development of airplane gasoline from Turner Valley crude in order to operate the vast fleet of planes to be used in the Commonwealth air plan.

4—Rapid exploitation of several Alberta fields now on the verge of production in order to increase oil supplies.

In close touch with oil development, Hon. N. E. Tanner, Alberta minister of lands and mines, has been in Ottawa for the past week. The news he will take back to Alberta will mean that the oil industry has won its fight for wider markets in Canada. Suddenly all serious obstacles have disappeared, and it will be up to Alberta to furnish the oil that Canada needs at home and at war.

Turner Valley oil production at the present time is 24,000 barrels a day, with wells operating on a rationing basis. The field could produce 35,000 barrels a day, without opening another well. The market for that extra 10,000 or 11,000 barrels a day now being left in the wells will be found, it is expected, in Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Turner Valley gasoline has not been able to reach the Vancouver market so far. It has taken up the Winnipeg market, except for about 2,000 barrels a day that comes in from the new Illinois field. Vancouver gets its gasoline and fuel oil from California for the most part. All the rest of the west is already served by Turner Valley oil.

The new war exchange tax of 10 per cent. on imports will shut off United States oil from the Winnipeg market. It is expected, and Turner Valley will take over the whole consumer demand there. But in extending the Alberta oil market to the Pacific coast, certain control measures will have to be taken. 2366

NEW GOVERNOR OF CANADA

The Earl of Athlone, who has been appointed Governor-General of Canada to fill the vacancy in the mighty Dominion of the British Empire caused by the death of Lord Tweedsmuir.

Britain Is Drawing On Empire Resources For Materials Of War

London.—Britain, preparing to defend herself against possible invasion, was told that the time is coming when the order will be changed from "hold fast" to "forward."

Herbert Morrison, ministry of supply, told the House of Commons "we must think of long-term policies and of offensive as well as defensive policies."

He disclosed the Empire and United States are pouring forth war materials in a vast stream for Britain's arsenal of war.

Munitions orders being placed in Canada during the last three weeks, he said.

He added that Britain is increasing munition orders in Canada, the other Dominions and the United States, not only because of immediate necessities, but as an insurance against the future. Canada, the minister of supply said, is "vigorously co-operating with us."

Vast new orders have been placed in the United States. Australia is sending large quantities of small arms and ammunition, revolvers and fuses.

The whole available surplus capacity in India has been taken up and the Indian government now is bringing into production various private arms firms.

Mr. Morrison said "very big orders" for raw material have been placed in the United States on the theory that "it is better to have too much than to risk having too little" in view of "possible siege conditions."

During a broadcast Mr. Morrison again alluded to Canadian assistance. He said Canada had shell filling and explosive plants and a Bren gun factory in production, as well as aircraft factories delivering Hurricane and other machines. Britain also has been able to draw upon Canada's stocks of weapons and munitions to meet special needs.

Britain was not either morally or materially "just a small island off the west coast of Europe," he said in the broadcast, which was relayed to the Empire and the United States.

"She is an outpost of civilization the world over."

Mr. Morrison said Britain was drawing today, and would draw "increasingly with every week and month," upon world-wide resources and the raw materials of countries of the Empire and the United States.

He added that because certain types of war supplies being released by the United States have "been in stock for some years," these were not "second rate or inferior."

RESPONSIBLE FOR MANY THINGS

Besides the Victorian Era, the passing of which is so bitterly lamented by some old people, and likewise rejoiced in by some young people, Good Queen Victoria was responsible for many other causes and events.

And among them was the invention of the safety pin. When Queen Victoria was a baby a call was set out through the whole of England for a pin that would hold her baby clothes upon her, without attacking or attaching any of the tender skin.

And an old jeweler whose name is now unknown, solved the problem by taking a piece of wire and cutting a groove the whole length of it, and then putting a smaller pointed wire in the groove.

CARRY ON

(Raymond Recorder)

The necessity for the carrying on of our ordinary business was never more urgent than at the present time. Too often there is a tendency on the part of the public to tighten the purse strings unnecessarily and as a consequence business generally is injured.

Today, as never before we must "Carry On." The demands on our purses for Red Cross and War Services of all kinds, mean that we must guard carefully against any falling off of business the only source from which we can hope to draw to meet these very necessary demands.

Don't get panicky, there are no doubt dark days ahead, but we will eventually win through. Carry On.

Delightful Motor Trip

The Banff-Jasper Highway Is Now Open To Traffic

Tourist demand for permission to use the new Banff-Jasper Highway, which connects Canada's two largest national parks, has been so great that the highway was unofficially opened for that purpose on June 15, according to the Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa. Official opening ceremonies planned for July 1 were abandoned because of the international situation, but the road is now open for travel and will continue to be open during the balance of the season.

One of the most ambitious of Canada's scenic highway projects, the Banff-Jasper Highway, connects the distance between the resorts of Banff and Jasper to 186 miles instead of a 511-mile drive required by previous motor routes. Designed to provide safe motoring, the road follows level stretches of valley and climbs or descends mountain sides in smooth, gentle curves. For much of its length the highway is more than a mile above sea level, and opens up to motor tourist travel, among other fascinating areas, the Columbia Icefield, a unique region which has held in its grasp ever since the ice age great mountain ranges and peaks ten thousand feet high.

The new Banff-Jasper Highway connects with the main highway systems of Canada and the United States, and makes accessible to motorists from all parts of the continent some of the finest mountain scenery in the world.

Keeps Them Busy

Bathers Find Treasures From Sunk Spanish Ship In Sand

Visitors to beaches in the vicinity of Guayaquil, Ecuador, scarcely have time to bathe, they are so busy picking ancient treasures out of the sand.

The loot is silver and gold coins and heavier bits of the precious metals sent to the bottom of the sea when, in the days of Spanish rule, the frigate Leocadia sank in a storm off Santa Elena.

Many attempts at salvage have been made, all futile. To-day, however, each storm sends an offering of metal to the beach. The treasure apparently is working shoreward gradually. While at first only small pieces were found, recent hauls included objects as heavy as a ten-inch silver bar.

Paris Always Survives

During A Long History It Eternally Rises After Defeat

Paris has fallen. But Paris has often fallen, as often to rise again. Conquerors and ravagers have come, flourished for a while, then gone again into darkness and oblivion. Paris always remains. It draws an unquenchable vitality from the very soil of its nest among the Jura hills.

Today's conqueror would do well to pause in his hour of exultation for a long look back into history. Fifty-two years before the Christian era, the original city was razed in war. Roman legions occupied it. In the Third Century barbarians from the East destroyed it again. The Normans besieged it. Armagnac and Burgundian successively ravaged it.

The English under Benbow captured it. Henry of Navarre battered at its walls. The Reign of Terror deluged it in blood. The Prussians conquered it in the war of 1870-1871. The Commune all but wrecked it.

But Paris the old, Paris the indomitable, Paris which is every civilized man's second home, eternally rises above any infamy that any temporary Caesar may heap upon it. —New York Sun.

Idea Is Very Old

Benjamin Franklin Thought Of Using Parachute Troops In 1784

Benjamin Franklin, of all people, seems to have been the first to recommend the technique of the parachute troops. In 1784 he wrote: "Five thousand balloons, capable of raising two men each, could not cost more than five ships of the line; and where is there a prince who can afford so to cover his country with troops for its defence that 10,000 men descending from the clouds might not in many places do an infinite deal of mischief before a force could be brought together to repel them?" —New York Post.

SLIM-WAISTED AFTERNOON DRESS

By Anne Adams

All the charm, poise and finished beauty of womanhood is expressed by Anne Adams in Pattern 4467—a dress that will give you dreamed-of slenderness. At the waist, pointed in front, seems to whittle down your waist-size. And the gently flared skirt has slimming front and back panels. Decorative gathers at either side of the attractive sweetheart neckline may be held by clips or by perky bows drawn through eyelets. More gathers at the short or three-quarters sleeves give a dress-up effect. A whiff of crisp ruffling at neck and sleeves looks most refreshing. Let the Sewing Instructor sort your needle course to a quick finish!

Pattern 4467 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3½ yards 39-inch fabric and 2½ yards lining. Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamp cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly: Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send orders to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg.

For Service in War

Canadian Ship Cut In Half For Third Time

For the third time in its history a ship has been cut in half at an Ontario shipyard. For the third time in its life the ship's bulky length will be floated through the St. Lawrence locks and sent for a second time to Allied war service.

In the late 90's she was a proud three-funnelled passenger ship with three-promenade decks, cabins, salons and gay fixtures. Then she was a twin-screw under another name, plying between Cleveland and Duluth before the turn of the century. Now her engines have been cut down to power one screw, and she's a one-funnelled freighter—but still a doughy ship with capacious holds in her 360 feet.

At the yards they're "fracturing" her amidships. Acetylene torches are blowing out her rivets, her beam has been cut in two, a wooden coffer dam will stop water from flooding her aft and a bulkhead will protect her forward.

The St. Lawrence locks, accommodating a maximum of some 273 feet, won't float the ship out to sea. So they're taking her down with tugs, one half at a time, and in Montreal she'll be split together. When the fracture is complete in dry dock they'll let the water seep in slowly, and pull the halves apart. Then tugs will grab her stern and prow and she'll bid good-by to the Great Lakes.

Know What They Want

Indians of Northwestern Saskatchewan have refused to accept the treaty money this year, as a means of helping the British Empire win the war. The noble Redman, says the Windsor Star, doesn't want a Great White Father who wears a tooth brush moustache.

I Read---And Write---For You

By JOHN C. KIRKWOOD

When he was 11 years old Philippe Bunau-Varilla, a French lad, dedicated his life to the project of building the Panama Canal. At age 26 he was director-general of a French company that undertook to build a canal across Panama. On May 18th, this year, he died in Paris, at age 61.

Colonel Bunau-Varilla got the idea of building a canal at Panama in 1889. He was listening to a conversation between his mother and his father. There was a controversy over the building of the Suez Canal, which had just been completed. The student regretted that he had had no part in the building of the Suez Canal. "You are too late for that," said the mother of Bunau-Varilla, "but not for Panama," but the young engineering student was staggered by the suggestion. "This young man lacks courage," said the listening lad to himself. "The idea is splendid. I will do it." At age 26, after he was graduated from the Ecole Polytechnique, Count de Lesseps engaged him as assistant engineer in the Panama Canal Company, and in the following year he was made chief engineer.

Years later, after the suspension of activities, the United States government undertook to complete the canal. There was a controversy over the relative merits of the Panama and Nicaragua routes. Bunau-Varilla advocated the Panama route with great persistence. An earthquake helped toward the eventual decision in behalf of the French company. Bunau-Varilla, as the first minister of Panama to the United States, arranged on behalf of the French company the sale of its rights to the American government for $40,000,000.

Italy has been supplying Germany with upwards of 15,000 bales of raw silk per year for the past four years. A bale contains 132 pounds. Other China; also the Soviet Union—its Caucasian districts. ## Class Distinction

It Is Character That Should Count, Not Wealth Or Position

Such distinctions as "upper" and "lower" classes drew a sharp criticism from the Bishop of Ely, England. Dr. B. O. F. Heywood, in an address at the Ely Diocesan Conference. He wants artificiality abandoned and men esteemed "for what they are in character and not for what they possess in cash."

Dr. Heywood said he was old enough to remember hearing people speak of upper and lower classes but never ceased to wonder which was which. He asked whether the "social butterflies—some of them painted butterflies, who toll not, neither do they spin" were the upper class and demanded why.

"And are the men whom I knew in my old parishes who mine the coal on which the nation depends for its power and never get paid as they deserve, but always in time of danger rush to risk and sometimes lose their lives in order to save their comrades of the mine—are they the lower classes? And if so, why?"

Red Cross Helping In Rural Sections Where Shortage Is Serious

A serious food shortage in Belgium, particularly in the rural regions, was reported by observers in Brussels watching the little kingdom try to adjust itself to German occupation.

Southeast England, can never hope to find husbands. The authority for this saddening statement is the Statistical Bureau recently issued by the Receiver-General. Two years ago women outnumbered men in the United States by 133,000. Boys were more numerous than girls in every age group until 15. At age 20, however, girls were in a majority.

Evidence of the longevity of women is given in the record of deaths: of the 100 who have reached the age of 100 or more, 93 were women, being spinsters and 76 widows. The fact that women are outliving men at a greatly accelerated rate, thus contributing to the width of the numerical margin of women over men.

For every 1,000 aeroplanes in operation there are required 32,000 men; or at the rate of 32 men per plane. In addition to ground men pilots are needed; also, skilled aircraft workers. Thus it becomes apparent that adding to a nation's air fleet is not just building planes; it is a good deal more.

Here's a new word for you to absorb into your vocabulary—"hydroponics"—signifying the growing of vegetables in trays of water in which chemical food has been dissolved.

A $5,000,000 plant is about to be erected on the Gulf of Mexico—to mine the sea for magnesium. It is the largest of its kind in the world. The ocean 175,000,000 million tons of gold, silver, copper, iron, radium and other metals and minerals. Each cubic mile of ocean has a potential value of $5,000,000,000.

This magnesium plant about to be built will have a capacity of 12,000 gallons of sea water. Operating at capacity it will find enough magnesium in a cubic mile of ocean to keep it going for 800 years—maybe.

Perhaps some day soon you will be reading in the advertisements of chewing-gum arguments for this practice—or habit—based on what Professor H. L. Hollingsworth, a distinguished psychologist, has said, namely: "chewing releases" so also "grimacing, adverting, wriggling, waltzing, twiddling, coin-juggling, name-calling, smoking, knitting or counting and tiddling. But chewing is the relaxer par excellence."

Devotional reading: Romans 8:31-39.

Explanations and Comments

Job's Uprightness and Wealth, Job 1:1-5. Chapters one and two from the Prologue to the Book of Job. The first chapter Job is represented as a great shiek possessed of a large family and fabulous wealth in camels, flocks, asses and sheep. He was perfect and upright, feared God, and turned away from evil.

Job's Steadfast Faith Under Trials and Afflictions. Again it came to pass on the day when the sons of God came to present themselves before Jehovah, that Satan came also among them to present himself before Jehovah. And Jehovah said unto Satan, From whence comest thou? And Satan answered Jehovah, and said, From the earth, and from walking up and down in it. And Jehovah said unto Satan, Hast thou considered my servant Job? for there is none like him in the earth, a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and turneth away from evil; and he still holdeth fast his integrity, although thou movedst him to swear that he would not give for his life. But put forth thy hand now, and touch his bone and his flesh, and he will renounce thee to thy face. And Jehovah said unto Satan, Behold, he is in thy hand; only spare his life.

So Satan went forth from the presence of Jehovah, and smote Job from sores boils from the sole of his foot unto his crown. And he took him a pother to scrape himself therewith; and he sat among the ashes. Then said his wife unto him, Dost thou still hold fast thy integrity? renounce God, and die. But he said unto her, Thou speakest as one of the foolish women speaketh. What shall we receive good at the hand of God, and should we not receive evil? In all this did not Job sin with his lips.

Now when Job's three friends heard of all this evil that was come upon him, they came every one from his own place: Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite; and they made an appointment together to come to him, and to comfort him. And when they lifted up their eyes afar off, and knew him not, they lifted up their voice and wept, and they rent every one his robe, and sprinkled dust upon their heads toward heaven. So they sat down upon him upon the ground seven days and seven nights, and none spake a word unto him: for they saw that his grief was very great.

TINY SLIPS IN ETIQUETTE GIVE YOU AWAY ON DATES

Saying "thank you" to her escort of the table has not escaped the notice of the man who is not so smooth-mannered as he is supposed to be. It is just such little errors that men take aren't used to dating, haven't learned the rules. The man should feel grateful to you for your charming company, though to let him know what a nice time you've had you might say, "It's been fun, Jack."

Check up on Rules for Poles

Adding to your pose by knowing the correct thing to do. Entering a restaurant with your beau, are you in a quandary over which place take? It's customary to accept the chair the waiter pulls out for you, unless you specially want another.

And when a man says "You look beautiful tonight," don't rudely accept his compliment. "Thank you," is the correct answer. "You're kidding?" Accept his compliment with a gracious, "I'm glad you think so."

Health LEAGUE OF CANADA
presents
TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST
by DR. J. W. S. McCULLOUGH

BROWNING IS REAL DANGER

Officials of the Health League of Canada, have issued a note of warning to children who propose to become swimmers during the summer months.

While not commending the extreme caution of the small boy who declared he would never enter the water until he knew how to swim, officials pointed out that good preliminary practice may be obtained by lying across the top of a muscle stool and going through the motions of swimming. If this is done for about ten minutes each day, the motions become mechanical and are performed unconsciously when the child enters the water.

But for awhile the youngster's natatory exercises should be confined to the school swimming tank or the controlled swimming pool, so that he may be under competent supervision until he has gained proficiency and confidence.

Most large cities now provide open air swimming pools or public swimming pools, for both, and unless parents are satisfied that rivers, ponds and beaches in the neighbourhood are perfectly safe, children should be obliged to avail themselves only of these artificial bathing places.

Many drownings each year are attributable to the fact that a river with an unexpectedly swift current, a weed infested pool, or a beach with a sudden sharp dip was chosen as a bathing ground. The character of all such waters should be thoroughly understood before any but the most expert swimmers enter.

Pools fed by mountain streams, the water in which is freshly melted snow, may cause a sudden seizure of cramps because of the excessive coldness, and should be avoided except by the experienced and hardy swimmer.

Polluted waters, from whatever source, of course should be avoided. Lastly, the Health League reminds parents that swimming is an arduous exercise. Children should be encouraged to indulge in it only in moderation.

Great Help To Ships

"Zig-Zag" Clock Tells Helmsman When To Change Course

British merchant ships all carry "zig-zag" clocks to help them avoid enemy U-boats. It was explained by a ministry of shipping inquiry by David Nicholl, marine superintendent of the Union Castle Line.

Nicholl said the instrument, which worked like an alarm clock, was set to ring at regular intervals, and the bell warned the helmsman steering a zig-zag course that it was time to change course.
